Work Being Done For Town's New Skating Rink

Co-Operation of All Will Assure Success

Work continues on the new skating rink. Lumber to complete the fence has been taken from the old swimming pool and also from the old apartment block on Fifth St.

The committee has made arrangements for holding an evening's entertainment in the form of an Amateur Hour on Friday, Nov. 4th. The hall should be crowded to capacity for this event. Every citizen whose children will receive the benefits of the rink should be in attendance in order to show their appreciation of the work being done gratis by the committee.

The season tickets will soon be available at the ridiculously low price of one dollar. ($1.00) Think of it! A whole winter's pleasure for a paltry sum. No doubt many of our citizens who do not skate themselves and have no children who will benefit by the rink, will gladly invest a dollar on behalf of our young people. All we need is friendly co-operation and success is assured.

Factors Causing Rise and Fall of Prices

Following factors have tended to raise prices: Seeding in Russia behind a year ago—No further permits for South African corn exports—Expect—usually small Italian corn crop—War risk insurance rates reduced—Threshing in Poland not up to expectations—Increased complaints of deterioration in Australia—Food grains in northwest India deteriorate owing to continued dryness.

Following factors have tended to lower prices: Rumania endeavouring to sell substantial amount of wheat—Rains bring relief in Argentina—Official reports state conditions satisfactory—Food Research Institute estimates 1938 world wheat yield may be greatest in history—Corn planting becomes active in Argentina—War possibilities fade and wheat offerings increase

STEWART HAS TROUBLES

It wasn't enough apparently that Jack Stewart had a fire in his car last week, which destroyed part of the upholstery, to add insult to injury, some unknown practical jokers loaded the car a few days later with debris ranging from packing cases to old shoes, requiring 15 minutes work on Jack's part to remove the junk.

Mr. W. Willis was a weekend visitor in Calgary.

A SON'S LETTER TO HIS DEAD FATHER

(Masonic Record)

The following letter, the authorship of which is unknown has been going the rounds of the Masonic press. Great Loving Father, how true it is. I wish every boy could read it, and after reading not pass it up as the ravings of some "old fool."

Dear Dad:—
I am writing this to you though you have been dead thirty years. From your seat in the Place Beyond, I hope you can see these lines. I feel I must say something to you, things I didn't say when I was a boy in your house, and things I was too stupid to say. I must have been a bitter trial to you, I was such an ass. I believed my own petty wisdom and I know now how ridiculous it was compared to that calm, ripe, philosophical wisdom of yours.

Most of all, I want to confess my worst sin against you. It was the feeling I had that you did not understand.
When I look back over it now, you that you did understand. You understood me better than I did myself. Your wisdom flowed around mine like the ocean around an island. And how patient you were with me! How full of long-suffering and kindness.

And how pathetic it now comes home to me, were your efforts to get close to me, to win my confidence, to be my pal! I wouldn't let you. I couldn't. What was it held me aloof? I don't know. But it was tragic, that wall that rose between a boy and his father and their fraternal attempts to see through it and climb over it.

I wish you were here now across the table from me, just for an hour, so that I could tell you how there's no wall any more; I understand you now, Dad, and God! how I love you and wish I could go back to be your boy again.

I know now how I could make you happy every day. I know how you felt.
Well, it won't be long, Dad, I'll be over and I believe you'll be the first to take me by the hand and help me up the further steps. And I'll put in the first thousand years or so making you realize that not one pang of yearning you spent on me was wasted. It took a good many years for this prodigal son—and all sons are in a measure prodigal—to come to himself, but I've come. I see it all now.

I know the richest, most priceless thing in earth, and the least understood, is that mighty love and tenderness and closings to help which a father feels toward his boy. For I have a boy of my own.

And it is he that makes me want to go back to you and get down on my knees to you.

Up there somewhere in the Glance, hear me, Dad, and believe me.

SCHOOL NEWS

On Friday, October 14th, the students once again gathered in the school auditorium for the Literary Society meeting.

The first procedure in business was the election of a new Room Improvement Committee for the coming week. The three to be elected were Eugene Rose, Evelyn Fulton and Winnifred Bamforth.

The editor's assistant, Annie Davidson, read the School Literary Cleaner, as the editor wished to give her assistant some practice. Kathleen Sheasby displayed her talent by playing two piano solos which were both very praiseworthy. For the remaining part of the meeting the best speakers from the grade ten class were picked out.

This concluded a very interesting meeting and the Literary Society students are looking forward to a special feature next Friday.

'OF HUMAN BONDAGE' TO BE BROADCAST

Somerest Maughan's gripping play, "Of Human Bondage" will provide the dramatic portion of Hollywood Hotel when it is heard over CFAC on Friday, Oct. 21st, from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. W. Powell, who replaces Herbert Marshall in the role of master of ceremonies, will play the lead advised by Margaret Sullivan. Miss Sullivan incidentally is becoming extremely popular in radio drama, having recently appeared in the "Silver Theatre" and already booked for roles on other network shows. Heard also on the Hollywood Hotel program will be Frances Langford, Jean Sablon as vocalists with Victor Young's Orchestra.

In the general election in New Zealand last Saturday the labor government won an overwhelming victory. They elected 55 candidates to the house of representatives, against 25 Nationalists.

SL Ambrose Sr. W. A. will hold its annual supper on Monday, October 24th, in the Parish Hall. Supper will be served from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Admission Adults 35 cents, Children under 12 years 20 cents. Cards will be played at 8:00 o'clock. Evening Admission 25 cents.

Sad news was received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. F. Cunn that their little 8 months old granddaughter, Phyl's, had died suddenly at her home in Vancouver. Phyl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Cunn, longtime residents of Redcliff. The child had been particularly healthy and was to have been entered in The Healthy Babies Contest held in Vancouver last Saturday when she took suddenly ill and passed away in a few days. Much sympathy is felt here for the bereaved parents and relatives.

Increase in Cancer Deaths

In Great Britain

They have 65,000 deaths from cancer in Great Britain annually. Each year since England began her records of mortality cancer has shown an increased mortality. Notwithstanding this apparent increase in cancer it is not believed that the increase is an actual one. The explanation is that increased length of life (fifteen years more than a generation ago) the better ability of the doctors to diagnose cancer and the improved records of the present day reveal cancer to an extent not found in former times. In a word we are finding more cancer cases than our grandfathers or our fathers found.

Lady Barrett a noted woman doctor, gave statistics of the London Cancer Clinic. She pointed out that of early cancer cases treated five years ago, 85% are alive and well today; of patients treated later when the disease was advanced 65% still survive. Of all the patients treated, 35% were alive and well at the end of five years. These figures indicate that if patients could be induced to seek treatment in the early stage, there is a very good hope of complete cure.

Several from Redcliff attended the Old Timers Ball held in the Armories at Maple Creek last evening. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. Podesta, Mr. and Mrs. E. Podesta, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Johnson and Albert Podesta.

Redcliff Young Lady Was Married Monday

SKOUFA—BALANDO

A pretty wedding took place on Monday morning, October 17th, at 8 o'clock in St. Patrick's Church. Medicine Hat, when Genevieve, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bando of Redcliff, was united in marriage to Mr. Skoupa of Bassano, Manager McCoy officiating.

The bride looked lovely in a wedding dress of tulle over white satin, with bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Annette Bastien who wore a gown of French Chantilly lace over pink satin with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

The groom was supported by Mr. Ferdinand Skoupa.

After the ceremony the wedding party which consisted of only the immediate friends of the contracting parties, enjoyed a sumptuous wedding breakfast at the Club Cafe, Medicine Hat.

The happy couple left on the 8 o'clock train for Bassano where they will make their home.

The ladies of St. Mary's Altar Society held a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Cuthbert last Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Genevieve Bando whose wedding took place on Monday last.

The afternoon was pleasantly spent in contests, in which the prize winners were the bride elect and Mrs. Harry Turner.

The bride was presented with six lovely and useful gifts for which she heartily thanked her friends.

After the presentation dainty refreshments were served by the ladies of the society.

Among the celebrities who will appear in Medicine Hat during the winter months on the Canadian Concert Association Concerts will be: Efram Zimbalist, one of the first violinists of the greatest living violinists. The two other artists are also top notches. One is Madam Martha Glaz a superb contralto vocalist well known among European lovers of music. The third is Földi Midner one of the greatest of women pianists. Do not delay in securing your tickets. You may get them from Mrs. E. L. Stone at the Review Office.

Have you seen the new sweaters at Hicks? They are real beauties. No foolin'.

Medicine Hat Little Theatre Season Opens

Invitation to Join is Extended
To anyone Interested

Membership in the Medicine Hat Little Theatre Association is open to any person interested. Only one common tie binds them—love of the theatre. People with special gifts in the acting, scene lighting, costuming and direction line are especially invited to become associated with this organization.

You may join either as an active member if you desire to assist in some department of the work of the Association—or as an Associate member and have all the privileges and pleasures of membership without any responsibility, other than being part of an intelligent audience.

All these privileges and pleasures are secured for the modest sum of One Dollar ($1.00) plus the usual admission of 35 cents.

The first production for this season will be given in the Empress Theatre on Friday, Oct. 28 at 8:30 p.m. It will be "Look Who's Here" by Charles Gerny. This is an amusing farce—comedy which will be full of laughs.

This entertainment will be open to the public—Admission for non-members 40 cents. Reserved seat plan opens on October 22nd.

Canada's Tourist Trade Shows Less Decline Than Any Other Business Activity

Tourist traffic will bring between $250,000,000 and $275,000,000 to Canada this year, Lord Dolan, chief of the Canadian Travel Bureau, Department of Transport, estimates, basing his year's estimated tourist traffic revenue was $250,000,000.

"The tourist industry has shown less decline than any other normal business activity in Canada this year," said Mr. Dolan. Canada up to July 31 received 9,012,177 visitors, a drop of 6.8 per cent. from the 9,676,754 who came in the seven months ending July 31, 1937, but a general upswing was reported in August with improved business conditions in the United States, the great source of Canada's tourist trade.

The tourist business drop has been most pronounced in Ontario and Quebec because they are contiguous to the United States industrial areas that felt most keenly the recession. But in these two provinces there was an improvement in August over July. British Columbia also does well with her tourist trade this year. Vancouver island reports a record number of visitors. Through the customs at Victoria, the island's main port, nearly 200,000 people entered August 31 there were nearly 200,000 people there, more than 100,000 people to the island, a record high.

New Brunswick reports tourist trade as good as ever. The province reported a slight decrease with Prince Edward Island about unchanged.

The Prairie Provinces report a better tourist trade than in 1936 but slightly below that of 1937. Business in Canadian provinces has done well this year, said Mr. Dolan. Crises has been averted.

Unsettled European conditions were expected to divert a certain volume of United States luxury class tourists to Canada, but this expectation was not realized, he added.

Consider The Platypus!

More Information Given About The Strangest Animal In The World

Concurrent with the news that a new set of bills of Australian stamps is to be issued, the duck-billed platypus, comes a revelation of hitherto unknown facts about the habits of this rare creature. Mr. Robert Edle, of Australia, is the only person who has succeeded in keeping one for any length of time in a pet, and his report he has made the following discoveries:

The platypus has a voice; a low threatening chuck like that of a broody hen. It can sleep 100 hours at a time. It eats one pound of earthworms a day with a couple of hard-boiled eggs beaten up in the water. Its bill is so soft that even worms are crushed with difficulty and it would be impossible for the platypus to bite anyone.

It is the only creature that walks with its feet or hands rolled into "fists". The most remarkable thing about the platypus is of course well-known. It is part bird, part fish, part mammal, for it has a bill, lays eggs, yet swims, and suckles its young.

Experiment Completed

Western Union Telegraph Company

Butler Cable Co. has been successful in a four-year experiment to plough trans-Atlantic cables into the bottom of the sea, side from damage by trawlers, was announced by the Western Union Telegraph Company. The cable ship Albatross, which left New York last March 29, has been working 100 miles southwest of the Irish coast and has succeeded in burying portions of three trans-Atlantic cables in the bed of the Atlantic ocean.

The experiment to plough cables into the ocean of the ocean bottom was on the 80th anniversary of what was once also regarded as impossible—the laying of the first Atlantic cable by Cyrus W. Field in 1858.

The operation was made possible by a new cable plough and the technique of ploughing ocean bottoms will save cable companies thousands of dollars in cable repairs annually, the announcement said, particularly as regards cables damaged by fishing fleets off the Irish coast.

Realized Childhood Dream

Lord Runciman's Secretary Started Early To Qualify For

A girl who heard the dearest secret of international diplomacy as she worked at her desk in Prague—she was her father's secretary for 20 years ago, she told him, "Daddy, what is politics?"

Her father, of course, of course, she wanted to be a school teacher. When her journalist father had finished telling her about politics she ran off to bed.

Half an hour later Rosemary, a school teacher and when her father reached her bedside, she told him: "I've changed my mind, daddy, some day I am going to be secretary to a Cabinet Minister."

The curly-haired schoolgirl, now an attractive brunette, is today private secretary to Lord Runciman and worked with him in Czechoslovakia.

Almost from the day she first asked about politics Rosemary decided to give up many of the little pleasures her constant presence with him. She spent her hours after studying in her father's library.

The years went by, she worked hard at Ashford County School, matriculated, and then went to London for a six months' course at the secretarial school.

She got a job in a Westminster office, worked still harder. Two years later her ambition was realized, she heard that Lord Runciman wanted a private secretary and within a fortnight she was taking his private secretary and dealing with most of his confidential affairs.

"It was a childish dream of the first place," Miss Miller's father told the reporter. "But the idea grew on her. Nothing would induce her to realize the idea of becoming a politician's private secretary."

"She likes dancing and other pleasures, but she never neglected her studies, after one passion—business work—leaving her. She loves to travel, too. We are very proud of her."

Food Value Of Potatoes

Mineral Salts That Lie Just Under Skin Are Valuable

Whenever possible, cook the potato in its jacket. Just under the skin lie mineral salts that the body needs. When I am eating a potato I feel it is just like throwing away the baby with the bath water—the outside part of the business is being forgotten. But if you feel you must skin, then do it as lightly as possible, or better still, strip off the skin after cooking. You'll find they will save quite easily, and they will save both time and food value.

While I am on the subject of the potato's food value, let me refer to the belief sometimes held—perhaps because potatoes seem bulky—that they are fattening. When I explain that the potato contains nearly 80 per cent. of water, about 18 per cent. of energy-giving carbohydrates, and only two per cent. of body-building protein and fat, you will see at once that the potatoes no more fatten you than do peas or apples. So I hope that lay listeners especially will be reassured on this score.—Bernard Moore, in The London Listener.

Was Not Bluffing

Man Had Dynamite To Blow Up New York Bank

A man walked into the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank at 15 East Forty-second street, just off Fifth avenue in New York, and said: "I want to borrow $20,000. If you don't give it to me I'll blow myself and you and the bank and everybody in it to hell."

He waved a small letter he carried. "This is full of dynamite," he said. A bank official, who preserved an accurate John Kaiser and other police officers, arrived from the East Fifty-first street station and nabbed him. The visitor had been right about the dynamite.

His satchel contained 34 sticks of the explosive and 46 percussion caps, enough to have blown out the entire interior of the bank and a good share of the building and street as well.

When he was asked by detectives why he wanted the money, he became hysterical and fought the detectives so violently that he was sent to Bellevue for observation. He was charged with violation of the highway law and attempted robbery. The incident recalled to old times a similar, but much more tragic incident of nearly 40 years ago.

In 1879 a stranger walked into the Wall Street office of Russell Sage, one of the country's wealthiest men, and represented himself as a messenger from J. D. Rockefeller. He demanded $2,500 in immediate cash, and John D. Rockefeller, the Emigrant Bank, threatened to blow himself and the office to bits if he refused.

He made good his threat. When his money demand was denied he blew up the building with dynamite to the floor. He and an office employee were killed and 12 others injured. The result of the explosion was a newspaper reporter, playing detective, eventually identified him as Russell Norman L. Norcross of Boston.

Prolic Writer

Author Leaves A Million Words For His Publishers

The world has not heard the last of Thomas Wolfe, the prolific young writer who died in Baltimore from an acute cerebral infection. He was 37 years old.

There still are 1,000,000 words left to be edited, his publishers, Harcourt and Brace, said. The result of his winter's work in a New York hotel. This consisted of seven pages of manuscript—material for several novels, if the publisher decides to use it all.

These will continue the story of the new material would be divided into at least two novels, perhaps three. Wolfe was a prolific writer of several novels, if the publisher decides to use it all.

Police Radio System For Prairie Provinces Is Anticipated

Western Canada will be surveyed within a year with a view to establishing a police radio system, Commissioner S. T. Wood, head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, announced. The force is endeavoring to have a competent radio engineer survey the three prairie provinces with a view to establishing points where radio stations would best meet their purpose. The proposal would be to establish stations in larger centers such as Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton.

Home Made Wines

Fruits And Vegetables May Be Used For The Purpose

Nearly all garden and wild fruits, as well as several vegetables, may be used for wine making, but the old country of being able to offer a guest a cup of delicate dandelion, elderberry, raspberry, mulberry, persimmon, or other such home-made wines seems to be on the wane, principally because there may be some of the younger housekeepers in the city who do not know how to make it. No great amount of equipment, however, is required and there are only two essential rules to be observed. First, the fruit or vegetable used must be of good quality, and second, strict attention must be paid to cleanliness. No license is required for making wine for home use, but its sale is prohibited unless the vendor has a license to manufacture and sell.

Pull instructions in the art of making wine in the home, together with several recipes, have been prepared by R. W. Arango-Jones of the Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Station, Ottawa, and may be obtained in booklet form on request from the Publicity and Extension Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Following are two recipes taken from the booklet.

Beet or Mangold Wines—For beet or mangold wine, the ingredients required are eight pounds beets or mangolds, two gallons water, seven pounds sugar, two ounces ginger, and six oranges. Wash the roots but do not peel. Cut in pieces and boil until soft. Add sugar, oranges (cut in slices) and ginger. Boil 20 minutes. Strain through a cloth and add one quart cake dissolved in a little water. Allow to stand in crock for five days and then run into a keg to ferment. Ferment for at least one month to clear and then siphon into bottles.

Pearnwine—Pearnwine is made by first scrubbing the pearn roots and cutting off the green stem part. Then finely slice two quarts of water to each quart of shredded roots. Boil until soft and strain through a cloth. Add one quart of water to each quart of shredded roots. Boil for 20 minutes and when cool add one quart cake. Let the wine ferment for a few days in a crock and then strain and run into a keg to complete the fermentation.

Birthers For Australia

Fifty Young Migrants Each Month

It is the plan of the British Empire League to counteract the flow of aliens into Australia.

They must be sons and daughters of British parents and will be recruited mainly from industrial cities. Domestic, skilled artisans and boys who will be apprenticed to trades are to be chosen, with a sprinkling of those who can provide a little capital. Committees to look after the migrants will be formed in each province.

Western Canada will be surveyed within a year with a view to establishing a police radio system, Commissioner S. T. Wood, head of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, announced.

The force is endeavoring to have a competent radio engineer survey the three prairie provinces with a view to establishing points where radio stations would best meet their purpose. The moon is our nearest neighbor, the satellite of our planet; it is, indeed, in the picturesque phrase of the famous French astronomer Flammarion, "our detached continent." It is somewhat remarkable, therefore, that many so near to us, only 238,000 miles away, should have been comparatively neglected in recent years.

Yet this is the case. It is significant that in a recent history of astronomical progress by a competent writer the moon does not get a chapter to itself. The reason is that in recent years comparatively little work has been done on the moon.

Neglect of the moon dates from the middle of the nineteenth century. In 1854 the famous German astronomer, Madler, in collaboration with his assistant, Seibert, published a paper in which he claimed to have discovered "Der Mond," along with which was published the most detailed chart of the surface of our satellite which up to that time had been constructed, and which included the positions of the numerous mountain ranges, mountains, craters and plains.

At the beginning of the century the moon was regarded as a simple, featureless sphere. H. Pickering (who died only a few months ago) began his long-continued series of observations, both visual and photographic, of the areas of the lunar surface. His reached the conclusion that the moon was not so simple as it had been assumed to be. He believed that he had evidence of the existence of a vast, low-lying plain, and that the mountain ranges of the moon were not so high as had been supposed. He also reached the conclusion that volcanic activity persisted on a small scale, and that heat-radiation was extensively deposited. He likewise believed that he had proof of the existence of a rudimentary form of vegetation, in the low-lying regions, and that volcanic activity, confirming some earlier conclusions of Flammarion.

Pickering was a first-rate observer, but he found few astronomers ready to accept his conclusions. Admittedly, the lunar surface is difficult to study, and most astronomers continued to believe that the minute changes which he believed himself to have recorded were due to changes of color and contour arising from the angle of illumination. In spite of almost unbroken opposition, Pickering's study maintained, right up to the close of his observing career, that the moon was not so simple as it had been supposed. He also reached the conclusion that the moon was not so simple as it had been supposed. He also reached the conclusion that the moon was not so simple as it had been supposed.

Interest in the moon which Pickering's work created died down years ago, but the subject has been revived recently by the discovery of a crater astronomer, Mr. Robert Barker, who has collected a considerable amount of data concerning the moon.

Observation of minute detail on the moon's surface is difficult at all times, and photography does not help much. But Mr. Barker's conclusions are of interest because they appear to confirm the observations of Professor Pickering. A great deal more work is necessary, however, both visual and photographic, before any degree of certainty can be reached. It is to be hoped that Mr. Barker's important paper, recently submitted to the British Astronomical Association, will act as an incentive to a more general interest in the moon—Manchester Guardian.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

by H. G. L. Strange

"These Registered and Certified seed growers seem to ask a pretty high premium for their seed. Isn't there some way to get it cheaper?"—a friend asked me last week.

"The seed is well worth the price asked," I told him. "It takes a lot of extra expense and care to grow Registered and Certified seed, but," I said, "if you don't want to pay the seed grower for doing the extra work, why not do it yourself and so save money?"

"How?", he asked.

"Lay down a seed field on your farm," I advised. "Choose five or ten acres of your very best summer-fallow, and then buy only a few bushels of the best Registered or Certified seed, and sow it on this small field, leaving an alleyway bare all around it. Protect the field, fence it, harvest, thresh and special bin the grain with care, and then by next year you will have enough seed for a large acreage."

"Oh", answered my friend, "that's a lot of trouble though, isn't it?" "Well," I ventured to say, "That's life all over, either we must go to extra trouble ourselves to produce an extra good thing, or pay someone else to do it for us."

Laying for the EAST

The East Likes Western Poultry to the Tune of Nearly $2,000,000 a year

Not only do Western hens lay for the East to the extent of over 50,000,000 eggs a year, but over 6,000,000 lbs. of them, and their consorts, go East in person to grace the dining tables of Eastern industrial workers.

The East needs the West to feed it. The West needs the East as a market for its produce; so the two work together—the East by spending over $40,000,000 a year with the Western farmer, and the West—by buying Canadian-built cars.

And that's a point worth remembering, for every car bought in the West helps not only the food-consuming automobile worker—it keeps him working and on payrolls in the rubber, paint, glass, steel, parts, chemicals and many other Eastern industries, to the ultimate advantage of the Westerner himself.

Punctuality In England

Some Personal Experiences Related
By Great French Author
Andre Maurois in his book, How to be a Young Woman of Quality, leaving for London, at the opening of the season, "which has been condensed in an issue of the Magazine Digest, pays tribute to the punctuality of the English. He writes as follows:

You are going to see a country you will like because it has grandeur, and which will like you because you have simplicity. Do not try to conquer it immediately; everything in England is done slowly and discreetly, and in time, you will be offered what you have never even requested. However, you will have to observe some formal rules. You will have absolute freedom for the big things in England provided you conform to the customs in small ones. Being a man, and like a foreigner, I do not feel qualified to describe these customs; however, I shall tell you what I have observed.

You will arrive in London for the season. Prepare yourself for it by a strict diet, because you are going to expend the greatest physical effort of your life.

In England exactitude will be demanded of you, not brilliance. Punctuality is more than a habit with the English; it is a virtue. You will go to dinner at half past eight in London means half past eight, not 20 minutes past, or 31 minutes past, and obviously, therefore, not at Paris, a quarter to nine. The cars arrive a few seconds after each other, and within a few minutes the drawing rooms are filled. Even in the country, in spite of a long journey, everybody is prompt. As a Frenchman arrive at a castle at 23 minutes past after travelling all morning. He had had an invitation, of course. When he calls in the mistress of the house told him, gently but severely, "We were beginning to wait."

How do the English manage? How do they calculate the traffic delays which are inevitable in the heart of London? I think they let it go themselves a maximum margin of wait. If they arrive early, they order their chauffeur to drive around the block until the precise hour, or if they come on foot, they pace up and down on the sidewalk. The servants themselves are chronometers. The guest who rings the bell at 23 minutes past eight must wait for a second; then he will receive a severe glance from the butler and disturb the mistress of the house who is just finishing dressing. At 23 minutes past eight, the footman of each house in Belgrave will ring the bell at the steps in front of 110-Belgrave, and take up their positions behind half-opened doors.

It is curious that late-comers are not waited for. After five minutes it is presumed that they have made a mistake or are still in the car. It is not, they would be punctual. Once offered a luncheon appointment and went, never comes the following day. "At least I hope you did not wait for me," I told her. "Wait," she called, surprised. "Why? I never wait for anyone." Another day when I was lunching in a London restaurant, we were waiting for the minutes for one of the guests. "Let us sit down," said the hostess. "I suppose Patricia must have broken her leg." A little later the telephone rang and the butler came to announce, "Lady Patricia wishes to say that she is extremely sorry, but that she is broken her leg."

Ancient Violin

Stefan Man Has Instrument Made
In The 17th Century

Possibility a Harlequin had used, uncovered a violin made in Cremona, Italy, in the 17th century, was seen by Arthur Murphy, grandfather of the violin brought the date 1673.

An Ansat turned up in Detroit several weeks ago. It was a violin, and it was in purchase. It was 218 years old. Murphy's instrument bears the date 1673, and has been in his family for more than 150 years, having come into the possession of John Murphy, grandfather of the present owner, when he was a young man in Ireland.

Of unusual tone and with the pattern characteristic of the Ansat family make, Murphy's instrument bears a plaque inscribed with the name of Nicholas Ansat. It was made in Cremona, 1673.

A brief history of the violin recalls it came into possession of the Murphy family from an Italian peasant in Ireland.

Keeps Fruits Fresh

New Chemical Process Would Put End To Refrigeration

Discovery of a new chemical process by which all kinds of fruits may be kept fresh the year around at little cost, is claimed by Dr. J. C. J. inventor, Durban, South Africa.

Dr. Jay, who has been experimenting for 15 years, believes his discovery will revolutionize the fruit industry and put an end to refrigeration. The main feature of Dr. Jay's process is a new chemical compound, which gives off a colorless gas, causing the fruit to become "dormant."

One-and-a-half ounces of this compound, which has sugar as its base, will preserve five tons of fruit for a year at a cost of five shillings, it is claimed.

"The fruit can be stored in large quantities in normal packing in ships, trains and airplanes, or on land in ordinary plain closed store rooms. The only apparatus needed is a gas-tight gauge and an open vessel containing a little of the secret drug."

The process according to the inventor will work just as well in the tropics as at the poles, as it is unaffected by temperature, but the pressure inside the store chamber must be the same as that in the atmosphere. When it is greater or less the simple opening of a valve, which lets gas out of air in, is all that is necessary.

This means that the process can be used in the chambers of ships at present equipped for refrigeration, but there is no need to turn on the refrigeration plant.

Dr. Jay contends that the process has been made so simple, and that the chemicals are so harmless, that it could be worked by a child.

He claims the results of tests reveal that his process can preserve:

Eggs for nine months, after which they may be as good as new; citrus fruits in perfect condition, without change in size, color or flavor, from nine to twelve months; peaches and apricots, from nine to twelve months; grapes, tomatoes, pears, apples, cherries, and all all smooth-skinned fruit, for at least twelve months.

Grapes can be kept at the least at fifteen pounds each for well over a year, Dr. Jay said.

Belong To Everybody

Highways Were Not Built Expressly For Speed Pleasure

The Ridgeway, Ont. Dominion thinks devotees of the speed cars are filling mental hospitals, and asks why all the rush? We still can't see the point in calling for a penalty for those motorists who do not wish to hurtle along the highway at 50 miles an hour. Fifty miles an hour has been set as the maximum, not the minimum, speed for the highway of Ontario, and if some motorists, or a lot of them still feel that they are satisfied with a lower speed, what is it just as much their right to go at the speed demon's; they leave built and maintain it, and why haven't they the right to use, and enjoy it?

The modern cars for speed and more speed—in travel, in sport, in the acquiring of wealth—is responsible for the present-day boom in the building of mental hospitals, more than any other cause, so, hats off to the pace maker who is content to take things a little easier.

A highway with heavy traffic, admittedly no place for a crawler, and as a matter of courtesy he should be taught to pull out and allow faster traffic to pass, but after all a speed of 35 or 40 miles an hour is very short time ago. Many rail way trains do not average it to-day.

It is quite true that modern cars are built to travel safely at 50 miles an hour, and we have no quarrel with the drivers who wish to do so. We take issue, however, with those who cannot tolerate the other fellow's point of view.

Two given a lot of thought to this new game, she writes me, "and the only thing that worries me is that I can't figure out any way you can avoid getting off the horse to put it."

Just A Success Story

How Railroaders Got Promotion Career A Head

W. L. Clark tells the story in the Windsor, Ont., Star: With the cars of wheat pouring into Port William and Port Arthur we are reminded of the success story of a man who has risen high in the Canadian railway service. We asked him one day how it was he had gone up while men with whom he had worked were still working in the yards.

Years ago he was in the yards at one of the lakehead terminals. He had been led to switch out a dozen cars of wheat to go on a certain boat. Then the order was countermanded. Just at noon the captain of the boat sent word to the man in charge that if he could get those dozen cars of wheat down to the vessel right away, he would take the train.

The railroadier went right out to get the cars. The first man was sitting on his haunch and stood on his rights that he must have so much time to eat. A couple of other men also stood on their rights. As he was in despair the railroadier saw his friend coming along the tracks. He told him his story. With no more said than a mere come on, our friend and the man in charge went to work, got the cars and in less than an hour shifted the grain cars to the boat in time to load the wheat.

Some time after that the senior man was promoted. He had the privilege of choosing his first assistant. He took the man who had helped him without standing on his right for lunch time. Both men went up and up the railway ladder after that until our friend was included among the higher ranking officials. That's just a little success story.

A Seasonal Thrill

English Crowds Enjoy Seeing Sheep Dogs Do Their Stuff

Shepherds and their educated dogs came down from lonely hills to give their annual "season" of public performance in England—the big sheep dog trials.

Scotland's contingent started the show at Kilmorye for the Scottish National Trials at the International Sheepdog Society. Then followed the Weissen National, the English National, Irish, and the grand finale, the International Trials at Southport.

International champion shepherd is J. M. Wilson of Inverlathen and the champion dog is Gallant Roy, one-eyed wonder of the sheepdog world. Royal, only dog ever to have won this title three times, has all the good points—he's patient, gentle but firm, resourceful and good-tempered. His wit, uncanny appreciation of emergency has more than once led crowds to forget the risk of silence and cheer his shepherd. In fact Roy is almost a shepherd in himself. He was the task set each dog and which Roy performed with such distinction to win the championship of the year. To gather the flock, lots of sheep which were released right and left at a distance of 800 yards and bring them to the shepherd. The sheep had to be "given away" over a triangular course on which there were two obstructions. Finally five minutes sheep had to be "shed" and penned. It all had to be accomplished within half an hour.

Could Always Be Avoided

Making Sure Gun Not Loaded Would

London Accidents

There can be few sadder gun tragedies than that which occurred in Toronto a short time ago when a young man took a rifle to clean it and to his surprise and horror it "went off" and killed him. The rifle was his mother's and she died a few hours later. Of course it was an "accident" but the knowledge that he took his mother's life will lie heavily on the young man's soul for the rest of his days.

It is the old story of not knowing the gun was loaded. He thought the breach was empty. He did not know the rifle was empty, but he thought it was. He learned too late. He shot his mother.

Shocking misusage of this kind are all too common. They are not really accidents at all because not one of them need ever happen. Every one is preventable and ought to be prevented. No one should put a gun away without first checking it open to see if there is a cartridge loaded and eject it. And even after that when a person goes to use a gun he should be sure the same thing is the muzzle to the ground and pull the trigger in case that was not done. In any case putting it away in case someone else may have used it between times.

There is one way to make sure a gun is not loaded—is to make sure—J. M. Thomas Times-Journal.

Hazards In The Kitchen

Simple Precautions Should Be Taken To Prevent Accidents

The kitchen is generally known to be the place where mother cooks the family's meals. But the kitchen is now discovered to be the place which caused 1,000 deaths last year, and where more than a million were injured in the United States alone. Studies of accidents produced the kitchen to be one of the world's most dangerous spots, says the Toronto Star, while saying the greatest danger is over-confidence. For example: a woman used some inflammable fluid to polish the top of her stove, her clothes caught fire and she was burned. A mother of four children was asphyxiated while preparing to bathe a bottle of milk; the baby because she had accidentally turned on a gas jet in her kitchen. A young child was electrocuted while playing with a broken light plug which was dangling from a wall socket. A young woman cut off the tip of her finger while using the milkstirrer for four, and it caused the death of her husband and serious illness of the children.

Most of the accidents are of the type of kitchen accident. More than 3,000 fatal burns and scalds occur in the kitchen every year. One thing is a special hazard, because loose sleeves and flowing garments are set on fire by the flames of the gas burner. Be neat and trim while working in the kitchen. Hot water works in pans and pots and is a very real hazard. Many lives would be saved if the handles of pots and pans were turned to the back of the stove. The handles of cleaning brushes often used in the kitchen, and burns are produced by rubbing the cloth with them. Be careful of the handles. Use a long coat to coax a fire. Lives would be saved if they had decided to wait some minutes for breakfast. Acids and alkalis, a hot iron left standing on the board, a floor made slippery by grease.

Soapy water, faulty ladders, housewives standing on chairs to reach cupboard, escaping gas, defective light switches, defective wiring, gas, pipes and other household equipment, many all too common types of kitchen accidents are in the nation's accident toll.

Simple precautions will almost always prevent such accidents. Death has come unexpectedly and swiftly to many who have gone about their kitchen work with half-consciousness, without inspecting the condition of the appliances that are used. In putting it away in a workshop, or the housewife, like any other workman in a workshop, should be sure that things are in working order.

Only Financed Prospector Has Any Opportunity In Yellowknife

There is no place for the transient in the Yellowknife gold field, two officials of the mines and resources department, back from a tour of inspection of schools, hospitals, government offices and mining districts in the Northwest Territories, reported at Ottawa, Yellowknife, on the north shore of Great Slave Lake, is Canada's newest mining centre.

The financed prospector, the hard rock miners and construction workers have a chance for employment during the field season in the Yellowknife field, Canada's farthest north gold workings, but even these should have guaranteed jobs before departure. For others there is no work, said R. A. Gibson, director of the department of mines and resources, and A. L. Cumming, Mackenzie district superintendent.

Travel around the field is almost entirely by aeroplane, though the trip to Yellowknife may be made by boat. It costs a lot of money to get around and there are no facilities for the care of the stranded.

All food must be purchased. Meat can be bought from the Indians who have exclusive hunting rights. Non-perishable vegetables and other foods are brought in by boat and taken to the mining camps by planes. Fresh vegetables are imported by plane from Peace River and Edmonton. Plane rate for fresh fruits and vegetables from Peace River to Yellowknife is 27½ cents a pound.

Both sides of the Yellowknife River, for many miles north of the town of Yellowknife, are staked out. Prospectors, usually taken in by "plane, are busy for many miles east and west of the staked territory and new finds may bring new settlements in the near future.

Since gold was discovered in the Yellowknife territory four years ago there has been an influx of prospectors from Ontario and Quebec, veterans who have backed. The field is not positively proven. It is not known whether any value found on the surface period. The field will be two years or more before the importance and extent of the field is determined.

Meanwhile the new mining camps grow in population and activity. In and around Yellowknife there are approximately 1,000 white people. The sub-mining region at Yellowknife is the town's policeman and the medical health officer are as sanitary inspection.

Jane: "No, ma'am, she bought it."

PHOTOS OF STAFF OF FLIN FLON MINE

They keep everything running smoothly and believe us, they're busy. Machinists, carpenters, saw sharpeners and dozens of other occupations are represented here—seventy-one of them and mostly from Canada and Great Britain. The Flin Flon has been a great mine for Canadians and they're all happy out there.

Sentinel Of The Danube

Friendship Of Hungary Now Sought

By Successes States

With Germany on the one hand and all the Succession States on the other competing for the friendship of Hungary, the situation in that quarter of the world may be said to have turned upside down.

The break-up of the Austro-Hungarian Empire after the war resulted in heavy losses for Hungary in territory and population.

Before the war there was no such place on the map as Czechoslovakia. It was carved out of the territories of Austria-Hungary by the men who made the Treaty of St. Germain.

Rumania and Jugoslavia also profited by the destruction of the Hapsburg Empire.

The Succession States as the three beneficiaries are called, have hitherto regarded Hungary as their natural enemy.

Now they are making non-aggression pacts with her, while Germany is showing honors on Admiral Horty, the head of her Government. Hungary is valuable to both because nature has made her a sentinel on the banks of the Danube.

Each wants the friendship of the sentinel—News of the World.

A NEW "DRESS-UP" SIMILIZER

By Anne Adams

You're admiring his slender lines and dignified youthfulness, but are you stopped to consider how simple this new style is to sew? Anne Adams, the designer of Pattern 4467, wants to stress the ease with which these long seams go together. Choose one style or another in one of the very new violet shades, or any other becoming Fall hue, and you'll quickly complete a dress in which you will "shine" at informal parties. It will especially delight those with large bust measurements, for the bodice features a soft, horizontal gathering from the beautifully slimming center panel. Note the sleeves—you have choice of an attractive short version, or an equally good long style.

Pattern 4467 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Also in sizes 58, yards 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Send twenty cents (20c) in cash (cheques cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: Anne Adams, 1715 McDermid Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Beats Trophy Winner Also Takes Big Sandwiches On Trips

Jacqueline Cochrane, flying fashion plate, takes along a book on American history, a deck of cards and some man-sized sandwiches when she takes around the country on record-breaking flights.

"I've never had to eat the food," the blonde trophy winner and beauty expert told the National Women's Press Club at Washington. "But if I did need to make an emergency landing, I could read or play solitaire—and I wouldn't rummage. I guess my taste in reading sounds dry, but I enjoy it."

Youthful Scientist

New Device Records The Vitamin A Content Of The Human Body

Invention of a device which determines the vitamin A content of a human system in 30 seconds was announced at Edmonton by Dr. Lionel Heston Pett, youthful university of Alberta lecturer-scientist.

Lack of vitamin A is related closely to "night blindness," cataracts and other diseases of the nose and throat, Dr. Pett said.

The device, simple in appearance but actually mathematically involved in its construction, outwardly resembles a circus midway "pony pop" machine. Staring into the periscope, a patient's eyes are dazzled by a strong light shining on white paper.

The length of time taken for the eyes to return to normal shows any deficiency in vitamin A content, Dr. Pett explained. "Right recovery time for a person whose system contains the proper amount of vitamin A apparently is nine seconds, my experiments have shown," he said.

As a rule, the genuine article is uncomfortable. A comfortable place of furniture wears out to its own time.

Medical Air Service

Corps Of Flying Doctors To Serve Settlers Advocated For Alberta

Alberta may have a corps of flying doctors to serve settlers in isolated districts if a plan of Dr. Enns M. Johnston of Wandering River, is adopted.

Establishment of a medical air service for outlying districts was advocated by Dr. Johnston when he addressed the annual convention of the Alberta division of the Canadian Medical Association at Calgary.

"I am not advising the government, but simply suggest a scheme which might be made available by private effort," he said.

Revise Customs Act

Lack Of Clarity In Matter Of Considerable Complaint

Complete revision of the Customs Act will be one of the outstanding matters with which parliament will have to deal next session. Already an inter-departmental committee, headed by H. D. Scully, commissioner of customs, has completed a draft of a wholly re-written act. Consideration to this is being given by Revenue Minister J. L. Flavel.

It is understood the minister will place the draft before the cabinet, with suggestion that Canadian industry generally be consulted before final approval is given and the legislation presented to parliament. This plan would be in line with the policy adopted some years ago when the iron and steel schedules of the tariff were overhauled. On that occasion extensive hearings were held by the old tariff advisory board.

The language of the Customs Act has frequently been criticized by those whose business it affects. In the West the claim is made that some sections of the Act vest too much discretion in the London customs officials, and that the phraseology is so loose that varying interpretations can be applied to it.

From time to time George H. Sedgewick, chairman of the tariff board, has complained of the lack of clarity which characterizes some sections. Severe strictures on the same lines were pronounced by Justice W. F. A. Pargson when he was probing the textile industry. The committee has been at work for more than a year.

Dominion Drama Finals

Will Be Held In London, Ont., During April 1939

The 1939 Dominion Drama Finals will be held in London in Easter week, April 10 to 15. The Western Ontario festival takes place in Hamilton, January 25, 26, 27 and 28.

It is understood the Western Ontario Drama League, has been named chairman of the London festival committee, in preparation for this, the first national drama festival to be held in that city. As yet, adjudicators have not been secured for either the Dominion or regional festivals of 1939.

Both the month and one-night plays will be included on the program for the Dominion festival.

To encourage play-writing of longer vehicles in Western Ontario the W.O.D.L. offers a prize of $50 for a play to run from one to three hours. Entries may be made to Mrs. G. W. Adams, 346 Aberdeen avenue, Hamilton, up to December 31. The entries are not for production, but will be judged on their merits as plays.

A prize of $10 is offered by the W.O.D.L. for the best cover design for the Dominion festival program. The award is valued at $10 for the best design for the contestants' pin, for the national finals.

Adopts New Scheme

Motorcycle Patrol In Aberdeen's To Be Replaced With Radio

Police are cycling round lonely heath in Aberdeen, Scotland, are to be linked by radio with headquarters. The new scheme is being tried in the first place to adapt the scheme. Two-way three-valve radio sets designed by the police themselves, are to be carried on their cycles.

The sets will be able to receive calls from headquarters and talk back as well. The radio sets will be carried by the officers in the car, the middle; the receiver-microphone will clip on the handlebar.

ALL OUR ADVERTISERS SAY SO

WORKERS FOR WORLD PEACE

Although we follow with our hopes and our prayers the efforts of the many sincere workers for peace in the world today, we sometimes wonder why such endeavor should be necessary. We feel sure that the average man and woman in other countries are like ourselves. They want no war.

Has it occurred to you that many of these peoples, peace loving though they may be, are deprived of the information that would enable them to choose wisely their course of action? Instead of news they are given propaganda. The facts are colored or misrepresented or suppressed. They have been robbed of the right to think for themselves.

Perhaps a permanent peace could have no better practical foundation than a free press throughout the world. We who have free access to all the news, take it for granted and treat it lightly. Yet, having this pledge of freedom, we should cherish it, bringing our children up in the knowledge and appreciation of this safeguard to their liberties.

Use your opportunities to be fully informed on all matters that affect your life. Give your family the benefits that a good newspaper can bestow.
